Numb. 3833.

The Daily Courant.

Friday, February 5. 1714.

Part of the Preamble, and Part of the Conclusion of the Pope's Bull condemning Father Quesnel's Book, together with some of the 101 Propositions condemned by the said Bull.

CLEMENT Bishop, Servant of the Servants of God.

To all the Faithful of Christ, Greeting and Apostolical Benediction,

THE only begotten Son of God, become the Son of Man for ours and the Salvation of the whole World, whilst he instructed his Disciples in the Doctrine of Truth, and in the Apostles taught his whole Church, ordering the present, and providing for things to come, delivered to us this most excellent and most wholesome Document, to beware of false Prophets, who come to us in Sheep's Cloathing : By which Name he chiefly points out to us, those lying Teachers, those deceitful Impostors, who under the specious Colour of Piety, secretly instilling wicked Doctrine, by the fair appearance of a saintly outside, introduce pernicious Sects : And that they may with less suspicion win upon the unwary, laying by, in a manner, the Wolf's Skin, and covering themselves with Sentences of the Divine Law, as a kind of Sheep's Cloathing, they wickedly abuse the Words of the Holy Scripture, and even those of the New Testament, which they many ways falsify, to their own and others' Perdition ; being taught by the Example and Instruction of the old Father of Lies, their own Parent, that there is no way so proper to deceive by, as to pretend to the Authority of the Divine Words when they would put their wicked Errours upon us.

Forewarned by this truly Divine Admonition, when we understand to our great Grief, that a certain Book, printed some time ago in French in several Volumes, under the Title of The New Testament in French, with Moral Reflections upon each Verse, &c. At Paris 1699. And otherwise : An Abridgment of the Moral of the Gospel, of the Acts of the Apostles, the Epistles of St. Paul, the Canonical Epistles, and the Apocalypse : Or, Christian Thoughts upon the Text of these Sacred Books, &c. At Paris 1693, and 1694, was still looked upon by several as free from all Errours ; was every where put into the Hands of the Faithful, and by the unwearied Pains of restless Spirits, always attempting something new, was industri-ously and vigorously dispersed all over, and even turned into Latin, that the Contagion might be conveyed into all Nations, and so all People ; notwithstanding it had been already condemned by us, as really containing Errours and unsound Doctrine, every where mixed with Catholick Truths : We were sensibly afflited to see the Flock of Christ committed to our Charge, thus step by step seduced, and led away to Perdition. Whereupon, stirred up, as well with our own Pastoral Concern, as with the frequent Complaints of the zealous true Believers ; but mostly with Letters and Petitions of several of our venerable Brethren, especially the Bishops of France, we have resolved to make use of a more effectual Remedy, in order to put a stop to the Course of this spreading Contagion, which may otherwise in time increase to an Extremity. --- &c.

Prop. 79. Tis profitable and necessary in all times, all places, and for all sorts of Persons, to study and know the Spirit, Pity, and Mysteries of the holy Scripture.

80. The reading of the holy Scripture is for all.

81. The sacred obscurity of the word of God is no reason for the Laity to dispense with themselves from reading it.

82. The Lord's Day must be sanctified by Christians, with the reading of pious Books, and above all, of the holy Scriptures. It is prejudicial to think of withdrawing a Christian from the reading hereof.

83. *It is an Illusion to persuade ones self, that the Knowledge of the Mysteries of Religion, must not be imparted to Women by the reading of the sacred Books.
The abuse of Scripture and Heresies are not sprung from the Simplicity of Women, but from the proud Knowledge of Men.*

84. To snatch the New Testament out of the Hands of Christians, or to keep it stout unto them, by depriving them of the Means of understanding it, is to stout unto them the Mouth of Christ.

85. To forbid Christians the reading of the holy Scripture, especially of the Gospel, is to forbid the use of Light to the Children of Light, and to make them suffer a sort of Excommunication.

86. Nothing givs a worse Opinion of the Church to her Enemies, than to see therein the practice of dis-minating over the Faith of Believers, and the fomenting of Divisions, for things which prejudice neither Faith nor Manners.

We do by this our unalterable Constitution declare, condemn and reject respectively, all and every one of the Propositions aforesaid, as false, captious, sound ill in, and offensive to pious Ears ; scandalous, pernicious, rash, injurious to the Church and her Practice, contumacious, not only to the Church, but also to the State ; seditious, wicked, blasphemous, suspected of Heresy, and favouring of Heresy, and also favouring Heretics, Heresies and Schism too, erroneous, bordering on Heresy, often condemned, and in fine, also Heretical, and notoriously reviving several Heresies.

Commanding all the Faithful of both Sexes, that they presume not to hold, teach, or preach otherwise, concerning these Propositions, than is contained in this same our Constitution : Insomuch that whosoever shall teach, defend, publish them, or any of them, jointly or severally ; or shall treat of them, even by way of Dispute, publickly or privately, (unless to impugn them) shall, ipso facto, without any other Declaration, incur the Church Censures, and be obnoxious to the other Penalties appointed by the Law against such Delinquents.

We also do forbid and condemn all and every Book, or Pamphlet, as well Written as Printed, or that shall be Printed (which God forbid) in defence of this Book : And we likewise prohibit and forbid all and every one of the Faithful, the reading, transcribing, keeping and use of those Books, under the pain of Excommunication to be incurred, ipso facto.
